Singer Fashion Mate 237 Sewing Machine review by RobiRants

The 237 Fashion Mate M-A was made in Monza Italy around 1965-1968. The 237 is the last machines to have all metal innards. My dad bought one (unknown cost) had it cleaned and re-timed once (again unknown cost) I have recently had the machine cleaned and re-timed for $100.00 locally. I remember Dad bringing it home somewhere in the mid 70's.

New Singer 237 Fashion Mate. I was just given this Singer 237 by a lady that had bought a new machine and just wanted this one to go to a good home, instead of just throwing it away. (Gasp!!!) I have not been able to test it yet, but she said it worked, other than the bobbin winder being a bit persnickety. It looks quite clean, so far, although I have not yet looked underneath or into the Bobben area.

hello all! I just borrowed a singer fashion mate (model 237) and have a question about lowering the feed dog. There is a little knob you turn to "D" for darning to lower the feed dog. This knob works fine and if I look under the machine I can see a lever move when I turn it, BUT the feed dog itself doesn't seem to move at all.
